EXAMS VS NO EXAMS?

POSTCARD

Join us to explore the future of education and discuss whether schools should begin moving away from formal assessments, or whether traditional testing methods still play an important role in learning. Together, we will examine the advantages and challenges of different approaches to exams.

We will also discuss how schools can better accommodate the diverse learning needs of students. What changes could make learning more inclusive, supportive, and engaging for everyone? How can schools create environments where students with different strengths, learning styles, and challenges can all succeed?

We hope to see you there!
