POSTCARD

Sunbeam Suncity invites students from across the Round Square community to an engaging virtual exchange on “Threads That Tell Stories.”

In this session, students will explore how textiles, fabrics, and patterns reflect cultural identity, traditions, and lived experiences. Through sharing and dialogue, participants will uncover the stories woven into everyday attire and ceremonial wear, and discover how these threads connect communities across the world.

We look forward to students bringing along a fabric, attire, or visual that represents their heritage and sharing the story behind it in an interactive global setting.

We are looking forward to you joining us on the call.
